PRESIDENT MACHADO FINALLY YIELDS IN FACE OF CUBAN REVOLT

BAKEWELL SCORES CENTURY IN TEST DEBUT

England Recover Well Against West Indies.
SCORE 312 AFTER BEING 73 FOR 4.

London, Yesterday.
Losing their first four wickets for 73 runs before lunch England were indebted to the fine fifth wicket partnership between Bakeswell and James Langridge for their total of 215 for 7 at the tea interval in the final Test against the West Indies at the Oval to-day.

Bakeswell, making his Test debut, scored 107 as the result of a chanceless innings to join the small band of players who have scored a century on their first appearance in a Test. He and Langridge added 74 runs in 80 minutes after lunch.

England made one further change in their eleven, Barnett, the Gloucester batsman, coming into the side in place of Headley. Verity, the Yorkshire slow bowler, Douglas Jardine, and some discovery on the arrival at Townsend were originally selected for places, but were displaced by M. J. Turnbull and Gregory.

The weather was very dull when R. E. S. Wyatt and G. G. Grant went out to inspect the wicket, which appeared to be affected by yesterday's rain. Wyatt, however, did not hesitate to give England first use of the wicket when he won the toss.

A crowd of 8,000 saw England make a disastrous start. With only 2 runs on the board Walters was caught by Merry off a ball from Martindale that got up awkwardly. 2-1-2.

Bakeswell and Hammond added 25 runs before the Gloucester star was taken off Valentine. 27-2-11.

Joined by his skipper Bakeswell aided Wyatt to add 35 for the third wicket before Wyatt attempted to punish an over-pitched ball from Martindale and was easily caught at cover-point by Acheson. 62-3-15.

Wyatt's Sequence Ended.
Wyatt's score of 15 concluded a sequence of three not out centuries. He had hit 187 against Worcester, 102 against Derby, and 150 against the West Indies in his three previous innings.

Further disaster befell England when Turnbull was completely beaten by Martindale after scoring a boundary to take the score to 68 for 4.

Bakeswell (40) and James Langridge (11) then succeeded in playing out time before lunch which was taken at 73 for 4.

BEAUTIFUL CANTONESE GIRL KILLED

Body Found In Trunk In Kobe.

JAPANESE REPORT OF LOVER'S QUARREL.

Shanghai, To-day.
A trunk murder mystery has been solved if the report circulated by a certain Japanese news agency turns out to be correct.

The case centres on a gruesome discovery on the arrival at Kobe of a Japanese liner from Shanghai on August 7, of a black trunk containing the dismembered body of a Chinese woman.

The agency in question describes her having been a beautiful Cantonese girl, aged 23 years, who during the Sino-Japanese hostilities in Shanghai, last year, served with the Women's Volunteer Corps, and alleges that her lover, who is described as a man of mixed Portuguese and Japanese descent, killed her on the night of August 8, in a fit of jealousy.

The "discovery" of the supposed slayer's identity is attributed by the agency to the "unfiring efforts on the part of the Japanese Consular Police."

"It is significant, however, that no one has so far been arrested, and nothing else has transpired to confirm what is given by the agency as a fact.—Reuter's Pacific Service.

Here an early tragedy marred the flight, an officer being killed when one of the planes capsized while landing. The flight, however, was continued, the reserve plane being brought in to take the place of the wrecked plane.

IRISH CLASH AVERTED

"BLUE SHIRT" PARADE CALLED OFF AFTER BAN

Gen. O'Duffy Avoids Disorder.

FASCIST CEREMONIES ON AUGUST 20

Dublin, Yesterday.

"On the solemn occasion such as the commemoration of the deaths of three of Ireland's greatest men, I will not risk the danger of disorder," declared General O'Duffy, Director General of the Irish National Guard, yesterday, when announcing the postponement of "Blue Shirt" parade, arranged to take place in Dublin on Sunday.

Owing to the Irish Free State Government's action in banning the parade, General O'Duffy said that he was, instead, arranging ceremonies to take place in every county in the Free State on August 20, when Ireland commemorates the deaths of Griffith, Collins and O'Higgins.

General O'Duffy's decision was made yesterday morning, "in the interests of peace and order," and a clash between the "Blue Shirts" and the Irish Republican Army was considered inevitable in the event of the demonstration, being held.

De Valera Bans Parade.

Dublin, Earlier.

A clash between the "Blue Shirts" and the Irish Republican Army, now appears imminent tomorrow, unless General O'Duffy reconsiders his decision to hold the Sunday parade.

A proclamation was issued by the President of the Irish Free State, Mr. Eamon De Valera, in the early hours of this morning, prohibiting the holding of the "Blue Shirt" parade at the time and place at which it was proposed to be held, or at any other place within a day before or within three days after.

Meanwhile, General O'Duffy's determination to hold the parade is instanced in an order issued to the National Guard officers, impressing all ranks with the necessity of continuing the march, and stating that the ranks will not be broken except by a direct order from a responsible officer.

General O'Duffy has emphasized that the men be unarmed.

Chapter II. — THE MISSION.

(By GERALD BURRARD)

GEORGEY went straight to his opinion that knife is a sign that I was attacked by agents of some secret society on purpose, and not just by ordinary footpads. "Certainly I do. And look here, Colonel, I will be straight with you. Your passage was booked by the Foreign Office, and they gave special orders that you should have a cabin of your own. I am not altogether a fool. No Government Department makes arrangements of that sort for ordinary lieutenant-colonels. Then it is not usual for passengers to go on shore armed unless they expect something. That's how the situation strikes me. I have no wish to pry, but I may be able to help you."

Geoffrey thought a moment. He was accustomed to summing up men, and knew the captain could be trusted. Nevertheless, he was not his own master. But he was groping in the dark.

"Captain Monckton—he had made up his mind quickly—"you are right. If it were my own secret I would never have hesitated to tell you all. As things have turned out, I think that not only have you the right to know all, but also that you may be able possibly to help us, and God knows we want any help we can get. But before I say more, I must ask you for your word that you will never divulge a hint of what I am about to tell you unless I give you special permission."

"The Frenchman, with all the inherent politeness of his race, immediately withdrew, and Geoffrey found himself alone with the captain."

"Well, I tell I ought to tell you that I have killed three men on shore this morning—an Arab and two Turks."

"Good God!" "It was like this. I felt some one trying to pick my pocket. He ran away and I gave chase. His confederates attacked me in a narrow street and one came for me with a knife. I shot in self-defence."

"So you were armed?" "Fortunately I was. I then heard a woman's stifled call for help, and managed to make my way to a courtyard where one of your lady passengers was gagged and bound by a couple of Turks. I shot one on sight. The other had a bang at me, but missed. We scuffled, and in the end I stabbed him a knife I had taken from one of my first assailants. I released the girl, and we managed to get clear away. We came on board and here I am."

"One of my lady passengers? Kidnapped? Bound and gagged?" "Yes, A Miss Merridew. Second class. I am sure it was a case of abduction for some reason. These things are done, you know. And big prices are offered."

"Of course I know. I am delighted at your success with those damned Turks. Wish I had been there to help. But I am not quite sure about your own affair. Robbery I can understand, but I am surprised at attempted murder in Port Said these days. Twenty years ago it would have been different."

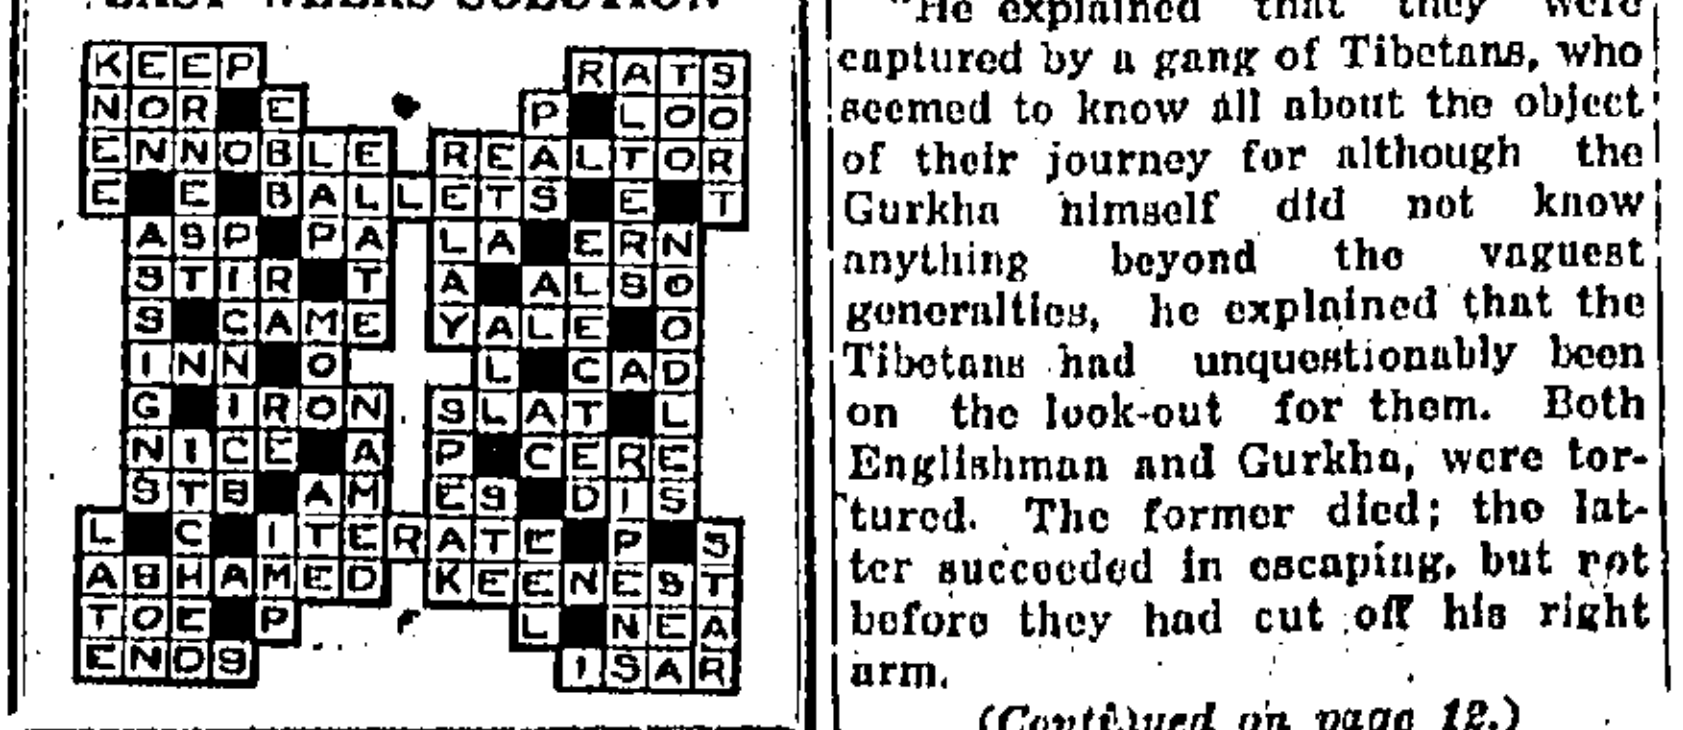

"Yes, it was curious. But the funny thing about it was the knife I got hold of. The men were Arabs of the worst type, I am sure. But the knife is a peculiar one, and is undoubtedly Chinese. Would you like to see it?"

"If you please, I have spent many years in Chinese waters, and know something about the country."

Geoffrey was not long in fetching the knife from his cabin, where he had hidden it in a box.

The captain examined it closely. Suddenly he looked up in horrified astonishment. "Do you see this ideograph on the handle? Well, that is the sign of some big thing. Then the Gurkha orderly suddenly appeared at the headquarters of his regiment at Dehra Dun, in India. He had lost an arm and was a dying man. He did not last long, but just long enough to tell his C. O. something of his story."

"He explained that they were captured by a gang of Tibetans, who seemed to know all about the object of their journey for although the Gurkha himself did not know anything beyond the vaguest generalities, he explained that the Tibetans had unquestionably been on the look-out for them. Both Englishman and Gurkha, were tortured. The former died; the latter succeeded in escaping, but not before they had cut off his right arm."

Mainly Women

Contrast Note In Colour

White For Active Sports Wear.

FOR all formal wear this season white and natural, with strong contrasting colour notes, have been of first importance, and will continue equally popular for the holiday season. But many planning a seaside holiday will welcome the attractive bright colours in which all summer materials may be obtained.

Bright shades of blue, green, and corals look their best in cottons or linens; navy and scarlet in light-weight wools make smart and useful coats and wraps for wear with white dresses.

For active country sports wear nothing looks better than white, but all pastel colours look well. For golf in hot weather natural string-coloured linen tailored on simple lines is pre-eminent.

Early Autumn Fabrics

Checks Maintain Popularity.

CHECKS continue popular in the early autumn fabrics, but for those planning a shooting or fishing holiday soft monotone effects are more suitable.

A coat and skirt of Cumberland homespun in grey-brown with a darker over-check is cut on novel lines with square neck opening filled in with a dark brown knitted scarf. The skirt is slim and straight, with a slight swing at the back to give the necessary freedom in walking.

Organdie has been the most popular material this season for summer evening frocks, but it is impractical for packing. Linens and piques will be seen for holiday wear, and also printed crepes.

Purposeful Styles Now Popular

Designers Concentrate On "Upper" Half.

FASHIONS are more practical than ever. Even the high hat has its aim in life. It sets off the "tray" shoulder-line and stops us from looking too square.

Everything has a purpose. There are styles designed to look attractive at the lunch table or for cocktail time or parties. No wonder smart women are taking them up so quickly.

Models are no longer launched in the private collections than you see them at the races or at any of the gay or stately town activities that go to the making of the delicious pot pourri the London season.

A smart woman luncheon at a well-known restaurant recently wore the new high hat. Coarsack shaped, and her "middy" jacket had by an undergraduate participating in a fashion show for the benefit of needy students.

Beach And Sport Shoes

Sandal Shapes For Evening.

BEACH and sports shoes with cord lacing and soles of wood or cork are made of gaily striped linen canvas.

For the evening there are sandal shapes, most of them extremely cut out even over the toes and heels. They are of flat crepe or satin in all colours to match dresses, and are piped with gold or silver kid.

New Styles In Furs

Autumn Fashions Show Distinct Change.

BEAVER AGAIN POPULAR

NOW is the time to have your furs altered and brought up to date. The advance autumn and winter fur fashions are known at this time of year, and fur work is less costly if done now instead of late in the autumn. The new fur models show distinct changes in the length of coats. Three-quarter length coats will be very fashionable in the autumn and winter, and long coats will be longer. Sleeves show changes: they are higher and fuller; and fullness is above the elbow and not below it. The arrangement of collars is different: a good many collars of contrasting furs, such as silver fox, are arranged like fur-pieces, and can be brought down and crossed at the waistline or used like short editions of the old-fashioned fur boa, whose return in modified form is expected.

For coats the fashionable autumn furs will be the very dark Canadian mink and nutria, which has returned to favour. Beaver will also be in fashion, and broadtail (whose elegance is beyond all changes of fashion) will be worn on less cold days.

A sable coat is a treasure which has a long life, though its immediate cost is beyond most women's purses. But the sable cape and stole are now in fashion. The finest quality skins have the longest life, and for sable stoles and scarves the Kamchatka skins, which are fuller in the hair, are used.

A warning about dyed furs and topped furs should be noted by those who refrain from sending them to storage under the impression that moths will not touch dyed furs. The moth appeared to have changed his habits. In the past he avoided all furs on which dyes were used, but recently he has shown that to him all furs are nests and food.

Printed Satin

PRINTED satin, very soft and with admirable draping qualities, is a serviceable material for dance frocks. A white ground printed in gold and lacquer red is very pretty in artificial light.

FREE BEER

Hat and jacket were in dark, almost black, navy, while the skirt was in light grege and the blouse a vivid red.

Designers have paid a lot of attention to the "upper half" this season. Looking round a restaurant at lunch or dinner time you see many new fashions "at table". There is no need for a woman to get up and go out before you know whether she is 1933 or not.

80 Years-Old Dress Worn

A dress more than 80 years old, that had belonged to Mrs. John Simmons, wife of the founder of Simmons College, was worn recently by an undergraduate participating in a fashion show for the benefit of needy students.

Paris Adopts The Glass Vogue

Some Very New Ideas In Furnishing.

AT the moment, Paris is very busy with glass for all forms of house decoration and furnishing.

For some time glass has been the vogue for smaller features of decoration, but now it is being used for large pieces of furniture, cabinets, tables, chests of drawers, etc.

At a huge store by the Madeleine some exceptionally interesting designs are on view.

A black glass clock, with the figures picked out in white, is now an attractive feature.

Another item was a black glass cabinet, the designs on each panel being painted on the inside, in white. The cabinet itself was mounted on a low white glass pedestal.

Mirror-glass is also most extensively used, even for a chest of drawers—decidedly effective, if somewhat disconcerting to suddenly see oneself reflected in such a solid piece of furniture!

One point in favour of this mirror furniture is that, reflecting, of course, as it does, everything around it, it harmonises beautifully with the most daring colour schemes.

Tinted Toe-Nails

Brightest Colours For Smartest Dressers.

Palm Beach.

MOST of the colours of the spectrum will twinkle from the toe and finger nails of sandaled femininity on the beaches this season.

Toe and finger nails usually will match.

So says Rene Cluzelle, who has studied those things here and at Biarritz and other French resorts.

The smartest dressers will wear the brightest nails, says Cluzelle.

PORTUGUESE WIN SWIMMING: BOWLS LEADERS RECORD DOUBLES

SHANGHAI WIN INTERPORT LAWN TENNIS

Tientsin Outclassed In Two Singles.

STERN DOUBLES STRUGGLE.

Shanghai, Yesterday. Shanghai, by winning the first three matches, beat Tientsin in the Lawn Tennis Interport to-day.

The results were:
Guy Cheng beat Omar Rumjahn 2-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.

Khoi Hooi beat Johannson 6-0, 6-0, 6-0.

L. F. Stokes and Squires beat Way and Verber 6-3, 7-9, 7-5, 7-5.

—Reuter.

Guy Cheng beat Teddy Fincher in the Interport against the Colony last year.

He is considered one of the most promising players in China.

Omar Rumjahn, his opponent, was a former Colony singles finalist and a doubles champion.

In 1923 he was beaten by N. Sze-kwong in the Final Round, and in the following year won the doubles title with H. D. Rumjahn against N. Sze-kwong and C. Choa.

This was the first of "H.D.'s" ten successive wins in this event.

The inclusion of Khoi Hooi, the former Malayan champion and present holder of the Shanghai title, came as a surprise, as he and Gordon Lum left for the interior in an attempt to further the interests of tennis, and was not expected back in time to aid China to defend the Rotary tournament title.

L. F. Stokes is the Cricket Club champion and Interport cricketer.

SWIMMING MEET AT THE V.R.C.

LIONEL ROZA-PEREIRA AGAIN OUTSTANDING

DONN WINS 50 YARDS TITLE

THE Portuguese Company with a total of 23 points, as against the Machine Gun Company's 7, carried off the Aggregate Cup and the Inter-Unit Relay trophy before a crowd of 500 people at the Volunteer's Aquatic meeting at the Victoria Recreation Club last night.

The outstanding performance of the night was that of Lionel Roza-Pereira, who carried off the 100 Yards Championship in 62 seconds, came second in the diving, and was mainly responsible for the Portuguese Company winning the Inter-Unit relay.

The Mobile Machine Gun Company sprang the surprise of the evening when they won the first heat of the Inter-Unit relay, beating both the Portuguese "B" and the Anzacs. In the final heat they swam splendidly, but Lionel Roza-Pereira's fine sprint for the Portuguese Company gave the favourites the race by a narrow margin.

The 50 Yards Championship provided another surprise when A. G. Donn, of the Scottish Company, won the event. He started behind Paget and E. B. da Roza, and swam almost level with Lionel Roza-Pereira until the turn when he sprinted magnificently to beat E. B. da Roza by a touch, the latter taking second place from Paget by the same distance.

One outstanding feature of the gala was the excellent handicapping which resulted in a close finish in almost every event. The handicapping committee are to be congratulated on their efforts.

Lionel Roza-Pereira was not seriously challenged in the 100 Yards Championship, winning the event by almost three-quarters of a length.

The 50 Yards was certainly the most thrilling event, the final length bringing the spectators to their feet in frenzied excitement. Donn's win was one of the most popular of the night, and he certainly deserved the ovation given him. This was the only event in which Lionel Roza-Pereira was not placed.

The diving championship consisted of plan dives from the top board, Ed da Roza winning very narrowly from Lionel Roza-Pereira, whose efforts evoked tremendous applause.

The Inter-Unit team race provided the second thrill, the fine efforts of the Mobile Machine Gun Company arousing tremendous enthusiasm from all sides of the crowded stands.

G. H. Fowler and J. P. Whitman were excellent, while T. Paget, who swam last for them, put up a splendid showing against the 100 Yards champion.

Two outstanding swimmers in the team races were the well-known Gosano brothers, A. V. and B., who swam fine races for the "B" and "A" Portuguese teams respectively.

Services Outclassed.

The last event on the programme was the water-polo game which resulted in an overwhelming win for the Volunteers over the Combined Services by 7 goals to 1.

W. Schreuder, the skipper of the European Y.M.C.A. "A" team, Colony League Champions, was responsible for five of the goals, while W. F. Kerr, vice-captain of the "Y" team and captain of the Volunteers team, was responsible for one of the other two goals. Lionel Roza-Pereira culminated a brilliant evening's display by scoring the remaining goal.

M. M. de V. Soares did not have much to do in goal, but when called upon he dealt safely with any shot, except on one occasion when he was put-off by some one shouting at him and let through the Services' only goal, scored by Selley from close in.

Volunteers: M. M. de V. Soares (Portuguese); H. Lange (A.S.C.) and N. Delgado (Portuguese); A. G. Donn (Scottish); L. M. Roza-Pereira (Portuguese); W. Schreuder (A.S.C.) and W. F. Kerr (Machine Gun) (Captain). Combined Services: Norbury (R.A.); Heard (Navy) and L. Ramus (R.A.) (Captain); Stevenson (Navy); Selley (R.A.); Campbell (Borderers) and Sutherland (Borderers).

Williams And Meakin Defy Naval Bowlers.

WILD SWAN LOSE AT CRICKET BY TWO WICKETS.

A spirited ninth wicket partnership between Capt. Williams (26) and Pte. Meakin (24) not out gave the Lincolns victory over H.M.S. Wild Swan by 2 wickets in the friendly cricket match at Shamshulpo yesterday.

Williams and Meakin come together when 8 wickets had fallen for 59 runs and the Lincolns required 30 to win. The pair added 49, Williams hitting a six and four boundaries in his 26. Lt. Cragg, who played for the Army in the League last year, compiled a useful 25 before being bowled.

A. B. Humphreys found the boundary on six occasions in his innings of 33, scored out of 88 for the Wild Swan. Lt. Simms batted freely when scoring 20 runs for the naval side, and was unfortunate to play a ball from Pte. Barnaby on to his wicket.

Sgt. Lilley, with 5 for 37, and Mr. Slater (6 for 51) were the leading bowlers in the game.

BAKEWELL SCORES CENTURY IN TEST DEBUT.

The rate of scoring had been very slow, 40 runs being scored in an hour. Martindale, the tourists' only real fast bowler, found that the turf would not take spin, but kept the batsmen quiet by his immaculate length. Many of his deliveries rose very awkwardly.

A crowd of over 20,000 saw Bakeswell and Langridge add 74 runs in 80 minutes after lunch before the Sussex all-rounder was caught off Barrow 147—5—22.

Shortly after Bakeswell reached his century, scored in 210 minutes. He added only 7 runs in the next 25 minutes before being caught by Headley in the slips. Scoring his 107 out of 194 in 235 minutes he hit ten boundaries in a chanceless display.

The West Indians met with further success when 14 runs later Ames was also taken in the slips. 208—7—37. Barnett (12) and Nichols (0) then played out time until the tea interval, which was taken with the score at 215 for 7.

Wimbledon is by far and away the best organised international lawn tennis tournament in the world. There is seldom a hitch in the arrangements, and from beginning to the end of the fortnight's play matches are staged with the precision of a well-oiled machine.—Stanley Doubt.

WATSON LEADS IN RIFLE SHOOT.

Tetley Close Behind In Monthly Event.

H. C. Watson (84) and J. L. Tetley (83), took the lead at the end of the first day in the monthly shoot of the Rifle Club at the Kowloon Tong Range yesterday afternoon. The shoot will be continued this morning at 9.30 a.m.

Shooting yesterday was made difficult by a slight haze over the targets, but in spite of this handicap good efforts were recorded.

The conditions of the shoot were one sighter and ten shots to count on each range, thereby making a highest possible score of 100.

A large number of members are expected to shoot this morning when the competition will be terminated.

The leading scorers yesterday were:

SPALDING for Speed

The all-important factor in modern lawn tennis is speed and yet more speed. Other things being equal the man with that extra speed wins the match.

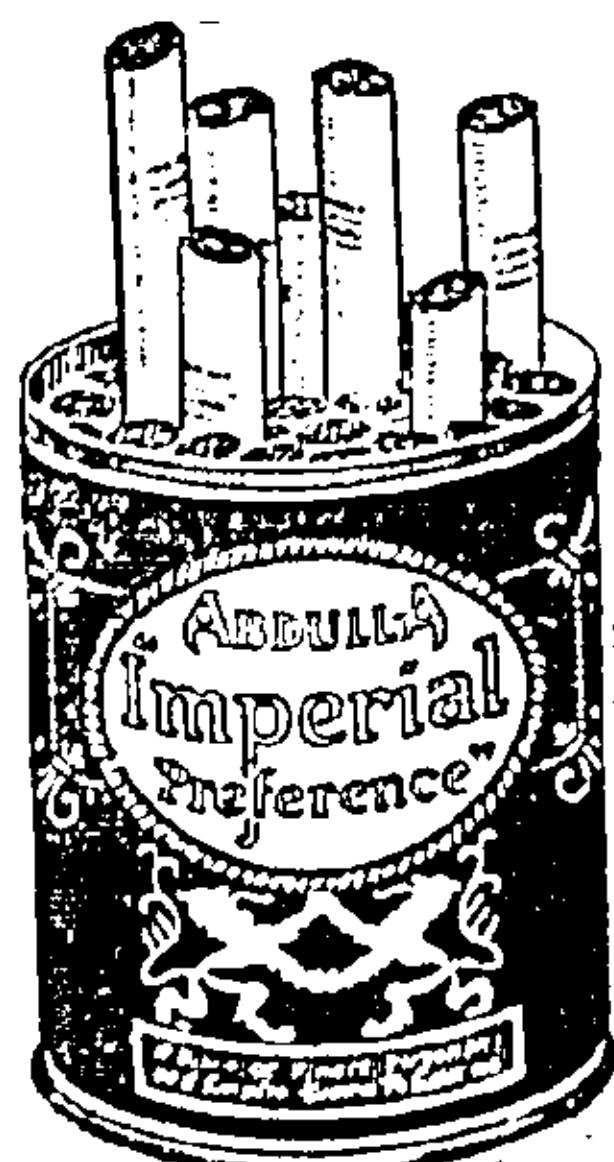

The new Spalding laminated multi-ply rackets are the fastest and most powerful ever produced. They can be strung to the highest possible tension without risk of warping thus giving tremendous pace to the ball as it leaves the racket.

The Spalding range of rackets for 1933 comprises seventeen attractive models at prices to suit all purses.

BERLIN SOCCER DEFEAT

Minich, Aug. 6.
In the football contest for the silver cup presented by Chancellor Adolf Hitler, the two representative teams of Berlin and Munich met here to-day in the course of which Munich won by 6-1. A record crowd witnessed the game which was extremely quick and interesting. After half-time, however, the Bavarians succeeded in scoring 6 goals within 14 minutes, while Berlin could register only one goal. The Bavarian Premier was among the spectators.—Transocean-Kuo Min.

In the Manfield workshops traditions of craftsmanship have been handed down from father to son. Shoecraft is enshrined there and safeguarded against degeneracy. The wonderful reputation of the MANFIELD FOOTWEAR is thus explained. It is said that Northampton, renowned throughout the world as the shoemaking centre, without manfield would not be the Northampton the world knows.

WORLD'S OLDEST PRELATE.

N.Z. Archbishop Visits Queensland.

ACTIVE AT 94 YEARS.

Brisbane, Queensland. The world's oldest living prelate, the Archbishop of Wellington, New Zealand (Most Rev. F. Redwood), is at present in Brisbane. Although he is 94 years of age, Archbishop Redwood is still active, and is now on one of his periodic visits to sunny Queensland, where during several recent years he has sojourned in the winter months.

He has seen a world changing indeed, for he was born at Staffordshire in England in 1839. Three years later he went to New Zealand with his parents, and was educated at Nelson, and later in France and Ireland.

He was consecrated first Roman Catholic Bishop of Wellington in 1874 and was elevated to Archbishop 13 years later. Archbishop Redwood has come to Brisbane this year on the advice of doctors. He developed an abscess in his ear, and although his recovery was satisfactory, Wellington doctors early in May advised that he seek a warmer climate for a few months.—Reuter.

He was sentenced to transportation for life in 1918, on a charge of murdering a neighbour of his, but he was released in April last, his sentence being commuted.

He has now returned, to his native village, and has brought £50, with him, his savings out of his earnings during his term.—Reuter.

City Development Scheme.

THE magnitude of the Government scheme for the re-development of the administrative area surprised most residents, but the proposals outlined during the week have met with general approval. The extensive plans, which, in addition to provision for a new Government House, City Hall and Government Offices, embrace a project for sale of the present Government House and grounds, and adjoining territory, for private development, have been wisely prepared and the Government are to be congratulated for sponsoring such an ambitious, yet practical and desirable, scheme. Above the City Hall, to be situated near the commencement of Battery Path, the new Government Offices (the need for which has been felt for some time) are to be built, while a new road will replace Battery Path, starting from Queen's Road and running into Garden Road in the vicinity of the Peak Tram Station. The new area opened up will prove most suitable to residential development, and with skilful planning and careful supervision of the sub-division, the ultimate result should be quite attractive. With the disappearance of the present Government House and beautiful grounds, the Colony will lose one of its most picturesque localities, but the compensation will be adequate. The whole scheme is an ideal one, and there should be little cause for dispute in the matter. Any controversy that might arise will probably be concerned with the City Hall. There are many who contend that a City Hall is unnecessary, illustrating their argument by citing the complacency with which the passing of the old City Hall was accepted. But the old building provided very poor facilities. If a new City Hall is to be built, and public opinion would seem to be favourable to the project, it must be worthy of the name, and sufficient amenities provided to make it an asset to the community. The Government's intentions have not been stated yet, but doubtless the plans will include a Library, a Concert Hall, meeting rooms, and, probably, space for a Museum and an Art Gallery. Then, too, if the demand for space proves too great in the Administrative block, the Legislative Council Chamber could quite well be accommodated in the City Hall. The building would serve another useful purpose if adapted for the large social functions such as the King's Birthday Reception. Although an expenditure of several millions is involved, the development scheme is expected to provide a profit, and this fact should afford assurance that the authorities will not economise unduly on the City Hall construction.

The site of the old former Naval Sanatorium at Magazine Gap is almost certain to be selected for the new Government House, and as most Governors, not unnaturally, have shown a preference for living on the Peak, the matter should not require much further consideration. The alternative suggestion that has been advanced to the effect that the Botanical Gardens might be utilised for the purpose of the new Government House and that a small summer house for the use of His Excellency should be erected at Magazine Gap is likely to find little support, official or public. Apart from the fact that the suggestion would entail three residences for the Governor (the third at Fanling), any encroachment on the Gardens would be strongly resisted. Any proposal that would involve the loss of any public amenity is particularly inappropriate at this juncture when controversy is raging over the Kowloon Coal Dump and the Chinese bathing sites at North Point. However, it is comforting to learn that official opinion is unfavourable to this proposal.

LONDON

OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

July 10.

An Incomplete Design.

Sir Edwin Lutyens's original design for the new Hampton Court bridge which was opened by the Prince of Wales included kiosks at each end.

Sir Edwin's intention was to make architectural provision for such matters as the sale of guide-books and postcards, and facilities for telephone and police.

Objections on aesthetic grounds were raised and there was some apprehension on the part of local tradesmen.

Though the bridge is without its kiosks they have not been finally ruled out.

Mr. Wilson Cross.

Mr. Wilson Cross, who was elected chairman of the Vacuum Oil Co. Ltd., is one of the best known Americans in this country.

Outside his devotion to the interests of his company Mr. Cross has been an active participant in the corporate life of the American colony in London. Notably he has been prominently associated with the American Chamber of Commerce and the American Club.

He was one of the group of Americans who in the early days of the war regularly lunched at a large table in the Savoy Grill. From this table messages were sent to President Wilson criticising in no ambiguous terms his attitude, at that stage, towards the struggle.

In Leicester-square.

Leicester-square presented an extraordinarily animated spectacle during the first night of the Russian Ballet at the Alhambra. The stalls emptied themselves with one consent into the square during the generous intervals, with a garden-party effect.

Within there was enthusiasm for the equal of which one had to go back in memory to the days before the war, when the Russian Ballet first burst on the astonished town.

The occasion was remarkable for the personal triumph of two ballerinas new to London, Irina Baranovna is only 15, and Tatiana Riabouchinska is 17. Their technique is superb.

"The Chimes" Dickens Heard.

It was recently noticed that repairs were being done to the beautiful lantern-tower of St. Dunstan's, which picturesquely dominates the western end of Fleet-street.

It has many Dickensian associations. When the cry of "No Popery" was ringing through the streets of London, Maypole High, one of the ringleaders, according to "Barnaby Rudge," put his head under St. Dunstan's pump, and was "almost sobered for the time."

The pump is now replaced by a marble drinking fountain, and the giants which struck the hour on the clock above are gone to Regent's Park.

The most interesting associations is that which connects Trotty Veck with the Bell lower. Dickens had the church, clearly in mind when he wrote "The Chimes."

An Aerial Occasion.

Viscountess Ellbank and her committee, who, on occasion, welcome foreign aviation visitors to this country, gave a most successful reception recently to meet the Air Attaches and the foreign officers attached to Royal Air Force units.

Twenty-two countries were represented among the guests, and British official, Service, and private aviation personalities arrived in force to greet them.

R.A.F.'s Foreign Officers.

At the present moment fourteen foreign officers are attached to the R.A.F., not including those from India and the Dominions.

In the current financial year, by the way, £20,000 will be received from foreign Governments in do-frayment of the expenses incurred in the training of these officers.

Lord Hugh Cecil.

A proposal is on foot to add the portrait of Lord Hugh Cecil to those of notable Churchmen which hang in the Church House, Westminster.

In view of the great public service which Lord Hugh has rendered to the Church Assembly in guiding its procedure and helping to form a tradition of dignity and prudence in the conduct of its business, the members thereof are to be asked to subscribe for the painting of the portrait.

Among the sponsors of the idea are the Archbishop of York, the Marquis of Bath, the Earl of Selborne, and Earl Grey.

Wild Fowl Studies.

Mr. Peter Scott, whose exhibition of oil paintings of wild fowl was recently opened by Sir Samuel Hoare, is the son of the great explorer and stepson of Sir Hilton Young.

From a very early age he has been studying the habits of wild fowl and painting them. Recently he sent two of his studies to the Academy. Both were accepted.

Mrs. Montagu Norman.

Mrs. Montagu Norman, the wife of the Governor of the Bank of England, will continue to represent Norwood on the L.C.C. until the election next March. Then her retirement, which she announced recently will take effect.

Mr. Norman feels that as the wife of the Governor she cannot continue her membership.

There is no legal disqualification. But the Governor of the Bank does not take part in politics, and, in Mrs. Norman's words, "what applies to the Governor may well apply to his wife."

Three Great Day Schools.

Professor Henry Clay's appointment to the Bank of England associates three of our great day schools. He is an old boy of the Bradford Grammar School, and Sir Otto Niemeyer, whom he has so ably assisted, was at St. Paul's.

When Sir Otto went to the Treasury it was at the invitation of Lord Bradbury, who is an old pupil of the Manchester Grammar School.

Lord Bradbury himself went to the Treasury after being selected by the late William Blain—also of Manchester—and by common consent one of the ablest brains ever guiding that august department.

To Aid Delegates.

Sir Clive Morrison Bell's tariff map of Europe excited a great deal of interest at the Conference recently. It has been exhibited to many bodies and in many places. Its "walls" round each country on the map are of a height exactly in proportion to the relative height of their tariff barriers.

Another diagrammatic aid to the delegates takes the form of a "general table" showing exactly how the various sub-committees have split up. It is taken down frequently for new entries, for some "sides of the family" breed very fast indeed.

The wags have enjoyed themselves in endeavouring with mock seriousness to fix the exact degree of "cousinhood" between some of the sub-sub-committees descended from the two main "branches"—the Monetary and Economic Com-missions.

Women on Juries.

The general effect of the Juries Bill, which Mr. Holford Knight presented in the House recently, is to extend the eligibility of women to sit on juries. The Bill entitles a woman to be summoned to a jury by reason of her husband being a qualified person, but it does not permit of husband and wife being empanelled on the same jury.

It aims at defeating efforts to exclude women from juries by the exercise of the right of challenge, and to secure this by providing that where a woman is challenged another woman must take her place.

The Bill has no chance of becoming law this session, but if it obtains a place in the ballot next session it will provide the Commons with the material for a first-class debate. It is surprising to find that with 15 women in the House, the Bill, which is backed by the National Council of Women of Great Britain, should be introduced by a man.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF SUN IN 1940

Great Importance To Astronomy.
WILL LAST FOR MINUTES

Johannesburg.
Astronomical expeditions from all parts of the globe are likely to visit South Africa in 1940 to view the total eclipse of the sun, which will be clearly visible along a belt of the Karroo.

Sir Frank Dyson, the former Astronomer Royal, in an interview with Reuters, stressed the great importance to astronomy of this eclipse. Sir Frank shares with an American astronomer the distinction of having seen six eclipses of the sun.

"The first eclipse of the sun I saw was in Portugal in 1900," said Sir Frank. "In the following year I observed one from the island of Sumatra. In 1904 I saw the sun eclipsed when I was in Tunisia in North Africa and other eclipses I have observed from Paris, Yorkshire and Maine (America)."

The eclipse in 1940 will last for four minutes, which, for astronomical purposes, is a long period.

The eclipse will be most discernible at Bitterfontein in Namaqualand. (Bitterfontein which is near the rich diamond fields was the scene 18 months ago of the sensational unsolved £50,000 diamond robbery).

"The expeditions will have to arrive fully a month before the eclipse, which is due on October 1, 1940. Many tons weight of instruments and equipment will have to be brought and erected at Bitterfontein, which will have quite a settled community of astronomers before the eclipse takes place. It is an event of tremendous importance," — Reuters.

WORLD'S CHAMPION WALKER

India To London In Six Months.
ONE PAIR OF BOOTS FOR 5,324 MILES

Cologne.
Left Lucknow (India) on foot on February 9, 1933. Arrived Germany on June 20. Arrived London (England) July 10. In all, 5,324 miles in under six months on one pair of boots (soled three times) and three umbrellas.

That is the log of Mr. M. H. Chalmers Aged 46.

Since leaving India he averaged 30 miles a day and has spent only £1 a week.

Mr. Chalmers carried credentials from the Viceroy of India (Lord Willingdon), Sir Malcolm Hailey, Governor of the United Provinces, and other influential people.

In regular life Mr. Chalmers is the transportation inspector of the East Indian Railway. He holds the King's Long Service Medal for 35 years service in the railways and saved his furlough for several years in order to achieve a life's ambition — a walk to London.

Hiking is his hobby. He walked 1,000 miles between Rawalpindi and Simla in 1929 and has seen the Himalayas, Tibet and the Vale of Kashmir on foot.

He left Lucknow on February 9 with a kit weighing 14 pounds, a tent weighing two pounds, a khaki tunic, jodhpur breeches, pith helmet, a camera, field glasses, a pair of stout boots and an umbrella.

The pack and the tent became irksome so he threw them away soon after starting. Without map or compass he followed the sign posts of international roads and laid a course for Europe.

He walked through Baluchistan, Persia, Iraq, Syria (via Beirut, Damascus and Tripoli), Turkey, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Austria and so to Germany. He speaks only English—but carries a "conversational guide" in four languages—and has an expressive nod or shake of the head!

Mr. Chalmers is an inveterate ten-drinker. He is so fond of tea that he arranged for parcels of his favourite brew to be sent ahead to 30 stations en route. He intended to present packages of tea to the Shah of Persia and the King of Iraq.

The journey has been undertaken under the auspices of the Victorian League at his own expense. He does not beg. "Hard neck and hard feet are my sole assets," he says.

During his long trek he has had many adventures and seen strange things. For instance:—"Forbidden" To Walk.

In Turkey he was not allowed to walk because he declined to pay for the services of a gendarme as companion. So his passport was used "For train only" under penalty of imprisonment.

In the large towns on the Persian frontier he had his clothing boiled to avoid—as he puts it—taking contraband animals into other countries.

In Persia, too, he had to fight savage mountain dogs. At Nish he found a large shop stocked with a wide variety of coffins—all available on the instalment plan.

Umbrella As a Weapon.
Mr. Chalmers has worn out three umbrellas. Two of them were torn to rags by winds and by use as weapons against the attacks of wild animals.

He has given various lectures en route to English and American schools, colleges and universities. Everywhere, he says, people have been extraordinarily kind to him.

Mr. Chalmers continued his walk to London via France and Belgium. He will write a book on his experiences entitled "The Diary of a Tramp, India to England 1933," illustrated by his own photographs.

BLOW TO DYNAMITE FISHING

Portuguese Tricksters Sent To Gaol.
GOVERNMENT DUPED

Lisbon.
Farmer Gargo is languishing in Lameiro prison. All because he wanted to be a "dynamite king." And he nearly was.

The stunning of whole shoals of fish with dynamite is illegal and subject to heavy penalties in Portugal. This illicit angling brings in immense hauls of fish to the Lisbon markets and has never been stamped out.

Many ingenious hiding-places for the small dynamite "sticks" have been discovered by the coastguards who search every boat leaving port for the fishing grounds.

"Sticks" have been found in bottles of wine, loaves of bread, onions and slices of cheese. For years a burly giant with a magnificent head of coal-black curly hair tricked the coastguards. He carried, with the aid of hair-pins, enough dynamite in his curls to blow his whole village sky-high.

Farmer Gargo, of Paniche, went one better. There was an old quarry on his farm. He asked the Government to be allowed to buy a supply of explosive to blast a road from his farm to the village. He got his licence.

Working on the principle of making up his dynamite into "sticks" costing him 25 escudos (four shillings) and selling them at 75 escudos (twelve shillings) he was well on the way to being a millionaire.

He actually sold 30,000 sticks before the miraculous hauls of fish made by the Peniche fleet led to a visit from the police—and Farmer Gargo's transference to prison.—Reuters.

EUROPE'S LONGEST RAILWAY BRIDGE

Danish Contract For Britain.
COMPLETION BY 1937.

Copenhagen.
Three million kroner (approximately £137,000) is to be paid immediately to Messrs. Dorman Long and Co. by the Danish Finance Minister, as the first instalment on the £2,000,000 railway bridge which the British firm is to erect connecting the Danish islands of Falster and Zealand.

The contract for the project, which involves the use of 30,000 tons of British steel, was signed by M. Knutzen, General Manager of the State Railways, and Mr. Osborne, chief engineer of the British firm.

The bridge will be the longest in Europe, and must be completed by November 1937, the contract stipulates.—Reuters.

Gangster Risks Capture To "Punch His Head."

Belgrade.
Peter Vasiljevitch was sentenced to six years' imprisonment by the Uzhitsa Court for a series of robberies.

As he was being taken to prison he broke from his guards and, despite a rain of bullets, escaped into the woods.

For days, at the risk of his life, he eluded his pursuers. Finally he was trapped on the bridge leading into the village of Gorobilji where he was first captured.

The gendarmes asked him why he had not made for the frontier and Vasiljevitch said: "I wanted to punch the head of the village mayor who gave my gang away. It would have been worth the six years." — Reuters.

WASHINGTON'S FEMININE JOURNALISTS

Three Papers Controlled By Women.
MRS. E. W. McLEAN STARTS NEW TABLOID

Washington.
Before many weeks a triumvirate of women will control the editorial policies of three Washington newspapers.

Mrs. Eleanor Patterson already has made a name for herself as the editor of the Capital's largest morning paper. Her front page personal editorials have attracted much attention and she has built up her paper to a foremost position in Washington.

Now two more women are entering the field in which she leads. The New York Sun's Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, wife of Colonel McLean, former owner of the anti-British Washington Post, unable, even by the sacrifice of her famous Hope diamond, to purchase the Washington Post which she considered the rightful heritage of her two sons, has announced her intention of starting a tabloid morning paper. It is to be called the Enquirer. She herself will not only finance it, but will control its policies, taking an active part in the hope of building it into a valuable property for her sons, whom she hopes to see become powers in the newspaper world.

The Washington Post has been purchased by Mr. Eugene Meyer, formerly governor of the Federal Reserve Board. His wife Mrs. Meyer is the vice-president of the company and it is stated on good authority that she is to be the ruling power on the paper and with almost certainly take an active part in its renaissance. She has journalistic experience and training to draw upon, gained in the days prior to her marriage when she was a member of the staff of the New York Sun.—Reuters.

The essays submitted for the prize must reach the Offices of the "Army Quarterly" not later than March 1, 1934.

EUROPEAN CHARGED IN COURT.

False Pretences Alleged.
REMANDED ON BAIL.

Louis Edwin Hodge, aged 44, manager of the Union Transport Company, was charged at the Central Police Court yesterday with obtaining $46 by false pretences from the Concrete Produce Company, by purporting that he was effecting repairs to a junk belonging to the company and that the sum was required as the cost, whereas the said repairs were not carried out.

Mr. M. A. Silva, counsel for the defendant, asked for two weeks' formal remand, intimating that he understood the prosecution were awaiting the return of Mr. Gray, manager of the Concrete Produce Company, from Shanghai.

He also asked that the bail of $500 be reduced to $200. The accused, he said, had given himself up voluntarily to the Police and was a resident in the Colony.

The defendant said that he had been in the Colony since 1916 and lived at 15, Carnarvon Road with his family.

The Magistrate, Mr. Wynne-Jones, granted one week's formal remand and fixed the bail at $200.

SOLDIER GAOLED FOR THEFT.

Stole Gold Wrist Watch.

"SPELL CAME OVER HIM"

Private Walter Langdon, of the Lincolnshire Regiment, was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment at the Central Police Court yesterday on a charge of theft of a gold wrist watch from the Hong Lee Jewellers' shop at 157 Queen's Road Central yesterday evening.

Langdon pleaded guilty and said that he "liked the window and a spell came over him."

It was stated that Langdon entered the shop at about 7.30 p.m. yesterday and looked at a gold wrist watch. It was handed to him and he walked out of the shop. He was chased and arrested by a district watchman in Li Yuen Street, West, where the watch was found in the right-hand pocket of his trousers.

Lieut. M. J. Muspratt-Williams said that the defendant's record was quite good. He was sober, and had no entry in his record for one year, although he had had a lapse of this kind before.

His record showed a conviction in May, 1932, for wilfully breaking a glass.

Asked if he had anything to say, Langdon replied that he "liked the glass and a spell came over him."

Lieut. Muspratt-Williams added that the defendant had probably done it in a fit of depression.

The Magistrate, remarking that he was afraid that he could not give the option of a fine in view of the previous conviction.

Unsettlement A Real Peril In Life

Distraction Cannot Be Avoided

PAIN AND PRIVILEGE OF YOUTH

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

WE hear on all sides to-day, that we are living in an age of un-settlement. Whether or not that is true of the world at large, it is certainly true in our individual experiences.

Sometimes these perils of un-settlement reach us through some great sorrow which lays the world in ruins at our feet. Sometimes it is the thrill of good news, or the excitement of travel. Sometimes it is the calling of the summertime touching our hearts with cravings which we cannot well interpret. And we seem to lose our grip, we are restless and know not what we want.

The very concentration of life to-day leads us to the intensifying of this danger. When life is narrowed into a dull routine, un-settlement is very easily wrought. In the old days, when life was larger, men were less ready to be thrown off their balance, but now that we have to concentrate so unceasingly, we have lost the power to respond quietly to what is new or strange or unexpected. When life is monotonous even a little incident has the power to disturb greatly.

This peril of un-settlement is one from which no one can hope to be exempted. It is true that life advances it may grow less, but in its fullness un-settlement is the pain and privilege of youth. Yet our life is so ordered that sooner or later there comes out of the blue, things that are mighty to unsettle. We can shape our course so as to avoid some of life's perils, but this one we cannot avoid.

For most men work is hard enough, even when they give it their undivided attention. It takes every power and faculty to be honest workers. But work becomes doubly hard when we are distracted under the shadow of overwhelming sorrow. It is not easy to carry on quietly and serenely when the sunshine is calling us. Work becomes irksome, duty becomes irritable. Yet for all of us, that is the one thing that leads o'er moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent to the sunrise.

Another peril of un-settlement of that it relaxes the hold of our good habits. We come to find, in our un-settled hours, that they do not hold us quite as firmly as we thought. Most of us are creatures of habit in a larger measure than we think. It is to them that we owe many a weakness as well as many a virtue. We owe much to one or two habits that were early formed. They may be simple, but they have a wonderful power. If a bad habit is the worst of curses a good one is the surest and most priceless blessing. One of the perils of un-settlement is just that we relax the hold of our good habits, and drift into bad ones. We may hunger for the good, but we have a very definite bias towards the other thing. It is here where we crack. Torn from our centre by something unexpected, we lose our grip on the steady and simple habits of the past.

Prayer.
And this is especially true of some habits of the inner life. Take the matter of our prayers. This—one of the first things we learned at our mother's knee, is one of the first things that we shed like an old garment when the hour of un-settlement arrives. In a great catastrophe there is an instinct in the heart to pray, but when there is disturbance only, there is a constant danger of forgetting it. Some pray through years of drudgery, and stop when good fortune comes. Some pray in the winter and forget it in the summer. Some pray at home, but in the excitement and stir of foreign travel, forget it. A glimpse of sunshine, a stroke of luck, a spot of liberty, and our prayers are forgotten.

It is always the mark of a great character not to be lightly or easily moved. St. Paul was one. He knew the hardships that awaited him, and the shadow that was darker than imprisonment, but he said "None of these things move me." With an unwavering and undaunted heart he held to the route that he had planned. Like his Master in a still darker hour, he set his face steadfastly to go up to Jerusalem.

It was one of the perils of the early Church. They were living beyond the experience of the ages. They lived in the daily hope that Christ would return. They refused to work, they were thoroughly un-settled.

Rejection is cowardice.
How can we organise into victory the common perils of un-settlement? Well, in a negative way, it is a poor victory to stand aloof. It is not thus that God would have us live. There are men who will not take a holiday, because they dread the disturbance. Knowing the un-settlement they prefer to give it a miss. Except for those who are old it is a road pretty near to cowardice.

We were never meant to bar the gates.—To shut the summer out, to shut love out is not victory, it is defeat. We were never meant to reject the gifts of God because of the un-settlement they may bring.

The stoic philosophy sought to achieve serenity of life by steeling the soul against the passion, and one of two things happened. Sometimes they won it, but what was the price?—Love was banished and the charm of things, and the sympathy that makes us brothers. Sometimes nature in her overmastering way just swept down the defences they had built.

Our job is to welcome whatever God may send, of sunshine or of sorrow. One way towards victory is to see things in their true proportions, to get their true perspective. In the words of Dr. Johnson,—"Think how little they will seem in 12 months time." There is nothing more kindly than a little humour in the right place, and when rightly meant. To see things in a smiling kind of way is often to see them in the wisest way.

But the greatest help of all in this, is to see the hand of God in everything. One of the commonest causes of un-settlement is to have to take orders from a dozen people. It is one of the causes of trouble in any household. Well—we are all servants in God's house and we shall never be at peace, unless there is one voice, we must obey, and one who gives us all our orders.

It is not God to-day, and fate to-morrow. It is not heaven in the morning, and blind chance at night. To see the hand of God in the least and in the greatest, in the burden as well as in the blessing, is the sure way, amid all life's un-settlement, to have a heart at leisure from itself.

PROSPECT OF A NAZI PARTY SPLIT

DANGERS THAT HITLER HAS TO FACE

RIVAL FACTIONS IN STRUGGLE FOR POWER

(By An English Resident Recently Returned From Germany.)

THE world must keep its eyes on Germany. The future of peace and European civilisation will be decided there.

Returning home, the traveller who knows Germany, not merely as a tourist, but as a resident, feels surprise at the comparative lightness with which the British public seems to regard the upheaval there.

For Germany is preparing to re-arm—and is re-arming—with a concentrated purpose never before known in a European country in time of peace. And I say this not lightly or out of superficial impressions.

The whole country is a camp. Germans are drilling from Aachen to Königsberg, from Kiel to Friedrichshafen. While all other industries are languishing there is a boom in those concerned with the material of war.

Germans Invincible.

Propaganda which daily impresses itself on almost every individual in the whole nation advocates demands on Germany's neighbours which could only be attained at the price of conflict.

Is there no opposition? No. All who are not with the ruling party are terrorised to a degree unknown in Western Europe in modern times. The present state of Germany is a barracks or a prison. To come out of Germany in these times is to come out of tyranny into freedom.

What is the basic reason? Germany has determined that, after all, she shall not have lost the 1914-18 war. German self-conceit was so great that the disaster of 1918 never seemed quite real—or at any rate not definitive. The present youth of Germany has had it instilled that the defeat was no defeat of arms, and that German arms are invincible.

Germans are great at believing myths. Once they give their minds to it they can ignore any facts and believe what they choose. The German idea of Hindenburg is a myth, so is that of Hitler. It has no relation to the real man.

The whole Press of Germany is one vast gramophone record, pouring out over and over again the story of German virtue and German wrongs. No department of the national life is free from this morbid self-gratification. Church divines join in fervently, and declare from the pulpit that the Hitler movement is carrying out the designs of the Founder of Christianity.

A Threat To Europe.

English friends ask me with astonishment how it comes that the Church has made no attempt to keep its independence. The answer is that the German Evangelical Churches have long since been spiritually dead. Under the monarchy they were little more than a department of State, with no real hold of the people.

There is no opposition to Hitlerism. It is as impossible as opposition to the prosecution of the war was in war-time.

The possible success of Hitlerism is a threat to Europe. Success will mean the drawing into the German orbit of Austria and others. The Hitlerites are particularly delighted with the spread of the Nazi movement in Zurich. It may seem astonishing, but it is true, that in spite of 1914-18 Germans are infatuated with the idea of a Pan-Germany (another myth!) embracing not only all German-speaking Europe, but also such quasi-Toutonic countries as Holland and Denmark.

Acute Division.

But will Hitlerism succeed? I have said that there is no opposition, but that does not mean that the whole nation is Nazi. It is possible that a free election to-day would show only a very small majority, if any, for Hitler. Not that there will ever again, in our times, be a free election in Germany. The new Tammany-Hitlerism is, like Leninism, Tammany Hall on a vast scale—is too firmly in the saddle.

Economics will be the crux. If Hitler can make Germany prosperous he will have succeeded; but it is a tall order! If he fails disastrously, and there is a bad winter, there may be civil war—not with the suppressed opposition, but between different Nazi factions.

I do not foretell economic disaster.

Germany is at present very hard up, but the cost of living and distress could increase a good deal and still be counter-acted by the tremendous propaganda machine. But actual unemployment must not increase.

What I foresee is a Nazi split. Already responsible industrial leaders have protested against Nazi rowdiness. I foresee a struggle for power between the rowdies of the party and the comparatively level-headed.

There will be a great rush of support for the latter by all decent people if the conflict becomes acute, while the Communists will join the former. It might come to civil war—with either Communism as the result or a restoration of the monarchy.

Meanwhile Hitler is more and more of a figure-head. His speeches are composed for him. In affairs he is ignorant and pliable, sincere but simple. His probable role is to succeed Hindenburg as President. His gifts as an orator are much overrated.

His reputation in this respect depends simply on the fact that in the past the German political orators have all been Socialists. It was a novelty for a Nationalist to have even a moderate gift of speech.

Riddance Of Jews.

Friends who are Jews or who have Jewish friends in Germany ask me about the raging anti-Semitism of the Nazi. The motive of this was partly greed; it was sheer envious greed. Jews were displaced so that others might step into their shoes. But the hate that has been stirred up is something that it would take generations to soothe.

It may be asserted that Germany has decided to rid herself of Jews. Contrary to report, no obstacles are put in the way of their leaving the country. Jews who stay on in Germany must be prepared for a restricted life and an atmosphere of mediæval hostility.

Even stronger objects for sympathy are those numerous persons who, because of the wrong sort of political affiliations in the past, are ruined and without occupation. The misery that underlies the suddenly military and cockade surface appearance of Germany to-day is not so dramatic as that of the victims of the Bolsheviks, but it is something for which history will have to arraign German education, culture, and religion.

The sensible way—the doctor's way—of treating that sluggish "run-down" condition is to use Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Try it instead of something just to "move the bowels." See how much better you feel—and continue to feel for days after! The anti-acid action clears the system of all those poisons that cause headaches, fatigue, loss of appetite. Get the genuine; look for Phillips on the wrapper.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Millions of Gallons maturing—Older and better than ever

PACKARD

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

"STYLE," as applied to the Packard, has always meant something more. Associated with it, logically and distinctively, is the other important word, "enduring"—a Packard characteristic for a third of a century. So gradually and correctly has Packard style evolved—like the slow unfolding of a beautiful flower—it has never been at the mercy of that capricious mood which too often alienates to-morrow's style from that of to-day.

CINEMA SHOW FOR OXPHANS

350 Entertained At Oriental Theatre.

Three hundred and fifty orphans were entertained at the Oriental Theatre, yesterday morning, when, for the first time, they saw a talking picture.

The entertainment was carried out by Mr. Victor Hugo, manager of the theatre; Mr. Benny Froulx, local manager of the United Artists Picture Corporation, who supplied the pictures; the Dairy Farm, who presented each kiddie with a cup of ice cream; and the Hong Kong Tramways, who furnished the transportation. Several private individuals loaned their cars for the occasion.

The programme consisted of a Mickey Mouse Cartoon, a Silly Symphony and a feature picture, "Robinson Crusoe," with Douglas Fairbanks.

The "talkie" was a source of great surprise to the juvenile audience, and many of them were mystified by the voices from the screen.

One expressed an opinion that someone was employed in talking behind the screen, while a little girl remarked that it was like a dream, and she had thought it impossible for a photograph to speak.

NAVAL STORE SHIP ON FIRE.

Fireboats To Rescue.

LITTLE DAMAGE DONE

A leakage of a quantity of sulphuric acid on to the wooden deck in one of the holds of the War Krishna, Royal Fleet Auxiliary Oil Tanker, lying at the Kowloon wharf of the Royal Naval Depot, was responsible for a small fire early Friday morning.

The ship at the time of the occurrence, was not carrying any oil, but had a large quantity of stores on board.

A volume of smoke issuing from the hold brought two fireboats to the scene and the blaze was quickly subdued.

UNLAWFUL PARCEL POST.

Molasses Damage Other Mail.

$30 FINE IMPOSED.

The Pure Cane Molasses Company were fined $30 at the Central Magistracy yesterday for unlawfully sending, by post, a parcel containing a sample of molasses, which soiled and damaged other postal packages.

Mr. W. J. Carrie, Acting-Postmaster General, prosecuted, and Mr. T. P. K. Kemble, was counsel for the defence.

It was stated that on May 31, a package was posted by the Pure Cane Molasses Company to Shanghai, addressed to Mr. Hoi Yuet Kee. The package contained samples of molasses which were of no value.

A report was received from the Shanghai Post Office on June 8, stating that the package had broken and that the contents had soiled the other packages. One, which contained woollen suiting, was refused by the addressee. The soiled parcel was returned to Hong Kong and a compensation of $19.45, including $5.65 for postage, had to be paid to the sender.

DATES NOT YET FIXED

Shanghai have accepted the Hong Kong invitation to send a lawn bowls team to the Colony in the latter part of September or the beginning of October.

The actual dates for the Interport have not yet been decided.

Leung Shui Man Warm Favourite For 50 Metres.

C.B.C. GALA THIS AFTERNOON.

Six relay teams will contest the 400 Metres Invitation relay this afternoon at the Chinese Bathing Club gala which commences at 2 p.m.

Another interesting event will be the 50 Metres Club Championship, for which the favourite is Leung Shui-man, who won the same event at the H.K.I.A.S.A. gala of June 24 last when he beat A. G. Donn of the European Y.M.C.A. by a touch.

The Y.M.C.A. have a very strong combination in A. G. Donn, H. Lange, E. W. Ratliff and W. Campbell and are favourites for the Open Relay.

South China with Wong Suen-man, Kwong Chun-hang and Cheong Wing-kwong among others have a good chance, and should fully extend the favourites. The home Club will probably be represented by Leung Shui-man, Tsang Ho-fook and Ng Wah-chau.

The following are the events:—Men's 400 Metres Invitation Team Race (Four Men)

Ladies 200 Metres Relay (Under 15) 50 Metres Handicap Men's 50 Metres Club Championship

'FLU'

IN 24 HOURS

WHY "ASPRO" DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

Science Protects You

Against Dangerous

Drugs and Narcotics.

In appearance 'ASPRO' is merely a white tablet, yet how few realise the scientific investigations—the laboratory experimental work involved by analysts and chemists to produce 'ASPRO' free from the development of hydrolysis and Free of Salicylic Acid which is so harmful to the human system. Don't meddle with dangerous drugs. You take no chances when you use 'ASPRO'. 'ASPRO' is the safe, sure, certain tablet. It does not harm the heart or cause stomach troubles. Furthermore it does not produce any injurious after-effects. 'ASPRO' relieves a headache in from 5 to 10 minutes. It stops colds and 'Flu' at inception and relieves rheumatism in one night, if taken according to the directions. It brings sweet sleep to the sleepless. It removes the cause of numerous complaints, because, after ingestion in the system, it is anti-fermentative—anti-periodic—an antiseptic—a powerful germicide and a solvent of uric acid. 'ASPRO' is sold in 3 sizes: 5's, 10's, 27's. Dowdell & Co., Ltd., Distributors.

Try 'ASPRO' for

Headache	Temperature
Rheumatism	Malaria
Neuritis	Dengue
Sleeplessness	Sciatica
Toothache	Gout
Earache	Lumbago
Neuralgia	Sore Throat
Colds	Asthma
Influenza	Hay Fever
Feverishness	Irritability
Periodical Pains Peculiar to Women.	Alcoholic After-Effects.

Two 'ASPRO' tablets dissolved in four tablespoonfuls of water make a very excellent gargle for sore throat, tonsillitis, and act as a deterrent. The reason why 'ASPRO' has such quick action in banishing influenza and cold attacks is, first, because it is an antipyretic or fever destroyer; secondly, when ingested in the system it is a powerful internal antiseptic and germicide.

You can prevent 'Flu' by taking 2 'ASPRO' Tablets at the first sign of a Cold and 2 tablets every three hours afterwards until the symptoms disappear, a hot whisky or lemon drink to be taken with the last dose before going to bed. It is advisable when taking 'ASPRO' for Influenza and Colds to keep the body warmly clad in order to prevent chill.

UNIVERSAL PICTURE

The Tiger Of Tibet

"Somehow he managed to work his way across Tibet to the Indian frontier. He then marched right through the Himalayas to Dehra Dun, where he finally collapsed. His story was somewhat incoherent owing to his condition—I said he was a dying man—but he brought a message from Carlton. He said that the sahib told him to tell his colonel that the Tiger was the danger, and his lair was near the Holy Mountain.

"Now, it happens that before the war I used to travel and shoot a goodish bit in Tibet, and I think I know the country as well as most. I was on leave from France a short time ago, and a pal of mine who is in the Foreign Office told the Foreign Secretary, who sent for me. He was good enough to ask me what I made of what I have just told you. I explained that Tibet was full of holy mountains, but the most important of all, and the one which is recognised as being holy by both Hindu and Buddhists, is Kailas.

"In the end it was decided that I should go to Kailas and try to find out what I could. In fact, my actual orders were to try and break this gang up. I was warned never to go unarmed, even for a moment, which explains my automatic, and that's the whole story."

Monckton had been listening in rapt attention. He had scarcely moved a muscle during Geoffrey's recital of his story, but the gleam in his eyes showed his intense interest and excitement.

"No, not quite the whole story, I fancy, Barraclough. I would like to hear more about how you came to be mixed up in all this."

"I told you. I was on leave and met a friend who is employed at the Foreign Office."

"Oh yes, yes. I understand all that. But did you actually volunteer for what would appear to be on the face of things a most ghastly risk? I cannot imagine anyone being ordered to go."

"Oh, well. As a matter of fact I volunteered. It was nothing really. I was sick of France and life in England, and I have always loved the great snow-capped mountains and vast upland deserts. You cannot imagine how strong this longing used to be at times during the war, and when I got a chance of being actually sent back, why, I jumped at it."

"All the same, it was damned fine, and I am proud to have met you."

"But about this knife,"—Geoffrey was anxious to change the subject—"I know very little Chinese. I once spent three months in China, but that is all. Tell me what you think."

"Do you happen to remember whether your attention was in any way distracted before you noticed your pocket being picked?"

"Now I come to think of it, I did turn round to listen to some guide touting for a job. He yelled out something about 'Captain Macpherson'—you know how they always hang hold of a few stock names—and I turned to look. Just then—I felt a tug at my pocket. Of course I see the whole thing. If the man had really wanted to pick my pocket, he would have done it without giving himself away. He merely wanted to attract my attention so that I should follow him. He then lured me right away into some slums where his pals were waiting for me. Yes, quite neat, but unfortunately I was armed, and that rather upset their

MOTURING NOTES.

BIG SALOON WITH 6 H.P. ENGINE.

New Fashion In Cheap Motoring.

The most amazing hybrid in England, a car that may start a new fashion in motoring, is running about London.

To all appearances it is a luxurious high-powered saloon. Yet, on raising the bonnet, one sees not the massive and powerful Rolls engine, but a tiny engine from a motorcycle. Forty horse-power has been replaced by six!

And the "six" can pull the heavy car about at 355 miles an hour, with a second gear top speed of 20 miles an hour.

"In my case conversion cost £20. The engine is taxed at £6 a year. I get 35 miles to the gallon, and 2,000 miles to a gallon of oil. Upkeep is negligible, and insurance is reduced.

"Mind you, I would not select it for a journey to Scotland. A long journey at 35 m.p.h. is too tedious."

FORD LEADS IN U.S.A. CAR SALES.

Detroit As Index.

Detroit, Mich. — Sales of Ford V-8 cars and Ford trucks have taken a commanding lead in Wayne county, in which Detroit, the motor car centre of the world, is located.

This may be taken as significant of the trend in motor car buying.

Registrations for the first twenty-four days of June showed a total of 1,816 Ford cars and trucks.

This is nearly twice as many as the nearest other make, which registered 963 units, while the second other make sold in the same period only 623 units.

DRIVING WITH ONE FOOT

Hydraulic drive will shortly make its appearance on a Paris bus, says "Motor Transport." This French invention abolishes both clutch and gear box and reduces driving to the simple expression of operating an accelerator pedal and brake pedal, only one foot being required therefore.

A remarkable demonstration of this type of transmission was given to a "Motor Transport" representative recently when driving a French light car up the steep gradient of Netherhall Gardens, Hampstead. On the hill the car was allowed to run backwards, and then by accelerating the engine was brought gently to rest and driven up the hill again.

calculations. Well, under the circumstances I think I will say nothing to anyone of either affair. Don't you agree?"

"Of course I do. And I congratulate you most heartily on your escape, and incidentally on your gallant rescue."

Oh, that was all luck. Any fool would have done the same."

"Well, I don't think you need fear hearing anything about either of your shows. But it will be a lesson to you to be careful when you land at Bombay. We don't touch Aden, so you should be safe for a bit, and you can renew your acquaintance with the charming girl. Well, so long. I must attend to my own job now. Good luck to you."

(To be continued.)

GUESTS OF THE THE MODERN HOTEL

The hotel staff, like the hotel owner, must realise that the motorist is the modern guest, and if they don't like him and decide to "leave him" they will get no guest in his place, writes a well-known hotel-owner in "The Auto-car."

PIRATES ENTERING HONG KONG

Police Warned Of Visits By Gangs.

PLOT FRUSTRATED HERE

As a result of the discovery of three loaded revolvers concealed in the false bottom of a bucket recently at Shauiwan, the Police are now carrying out enquiries amongst the 13 men detained in custody out of the 32 arrested on that occasion.

It is suspected that the men are members of the piracy gang which was reported to have come to Hong Kong from Wai Chau.

A third party of pirates is known to have left the Wai Chau district and it is believed that this gang was responsible for the piracy of the China Merchants' steamer Yu Shun on July 31, between Swatow and Shanghai.

It is stated that pirates are particularly active at the moment. Headquarters are known to exist at Hong Kong, Swatow and Canton. Local shipping companies are advised to take every precaution regarding vessels leaving the port.

Information has been received by the local police authorities that, on July 29, 10 pirates left Wai Chau area for Hong Kong on a piratical expedition, and that a party of some 13 pirates left the same district on August 1 for Shanghai.

INTERPORT POLICE CO-OPERATION

In an interview with a representative of the Sunday Herald a high Police official stated that the Hong Kong Police were working in conjunction with the Canton authorities in the endeavour to round up the leaders of the pirate gangs.

The Wai Chau area, which lies between Mira Bay and Bias Bay, is known to be the present headquarters of the pirate gangs, composed principally of unemployed ships' firemen, ready to take on any dangerous escapade in order to obtain money. The harvest in the district has been very bad this year and the inhabitants are in a state of dire poverty.

"It is believed said the official, that most of the pirates that have occurred during the past few years have been carried out by these Holo ex-firemen, who have a thorough knowledge of ship-routine.

Arms and ammunition are plentiful in the Wai Chau area and the men have no difficulty in obtaining the necessary weapons for their raids. The ship's fire-arms captured in each successful coup further increase the store of weapons which they already have at their disposal.

THE SHAIKIWAN CAPTURES

The official stated that the information received by the Police was to the effect that three buckets similar to the one found at Shauiwan had been brought into the Colony at the same time. They were cleverly constructed, a false bottom being soldered to the original one, leaving space for three pistols in each.

Nine of these weapons, he remarked, would be fully sufficient for the carrying out of a piracy on any fair-sized ship.

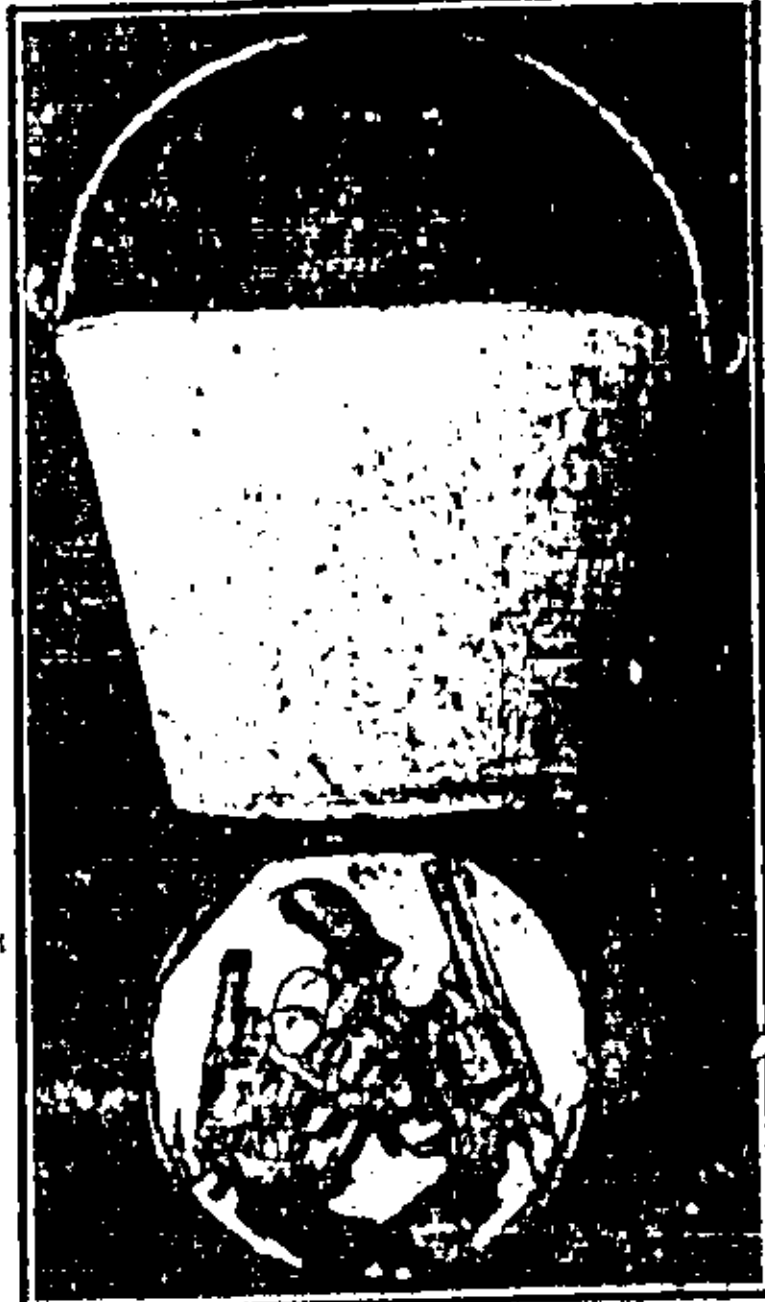

The Police of Hong Kong, Canton and Swatow are on the alert for any attempt that may be made by the visitors from Wai Chau.

The Shanghai police are also making a careful search of every vessel leaving the port.

He addressed the mutinous troops and then drove back at a furious pace to the Presidential Palace.

It is reported that the insurgent leaders have demanded that General Herrera arrange the President's retirement within 48 hours.

HEAVY LOSSES BY COMMUNISTS

19th Route Army Regain Lost Ground.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN FUKIEN

Canton, Yesterday. Reinforced by fresh troops, the 19th Route Army have recaptured Lien Chien in western Fukien by launching an offensive from Lung-zen, which is about 40 miles south-east of Lien Chien and is the headquarters of General Tsi Ting-kai, in command of the 19th Route Army.

The Government troops were obliged to effect a strategic retreat from Lien Cheng a week ago owing to the overwhelming onslaught of the Communist forces under Pang Teh-hual. The arrival of two other divisions at Lung Yen made it possible to launch a counter-offensive on Lien Cheng which was captured on Friday.

It is reported that about 5,000 Reds were killed in the last battle, while the 19th Route Army also suffered heavy casualties. The Communists were forced to flee to their Fukien stronghold in Changting, west of Lien Cheng.

A squadron of bombers under Wing-Commander Wu Chien-wen flew daily from their base in Swatow into southern Kiangsi and western Fukien to observe the movements of the Reds whose main force is now in Juichin, southern Kiangsi and Changting, western Fukien. The Communist military depots are often bombed.—Central Press.

MANCHESTER AND SILVER

Stabilised Metal Desired.

The Federation of Master Cotton Spinners have further approached the Government, asking for the encouragement of silver stabilisation.—Reuter.

AIR ARMADA LEAVE LISBON FOR ROME.

Leaving Amsterdam on July 3, they flew to Londonderry, Ireland, and after a slight delay, took off for Reykjavik, Iceland. Here they were delayed for a week, taking off on the most perilous part of their flight, across the Atlantic to Cartwright, Labrador, on July 12. All the planes made a safe crossing and after flying via Shediac (New Brunswick) and Montreal, reached Chicago on the evening of July 15.

After a brief stay, during which time the planes were paraded at the World Fair, the Armada visited New York, commencing the return flight via New Brunswick, Newfoundland and the Azores on July 25.

A second tragedy occurred at the Azores, when one of the planes, while taking off from Horta to join the remainder of the flight, which landed at Ponta Delgada on August 8, turned over and sank with the loss of one life.

A third crash in connection with the flight occurred on Friday, when a seaplane carrying General Julio Valle, Chief of the Italian Air Staff, crashed into the sea near Valencia, Spain. General Valle was seriously injured and six others were also injured and taken to hospital. The incursion of aeroplanes from General Valle was flying to Barcelona from Lisbon, after attending a reception to General Balbo.

London, Yesterday. Official figures published at Simla show that the number of persons in prison for civil disobedience activities at the end of June was 6,916, representing a reduction of 75 per cent. compared with the total at the end of June 1932.

Owing to the expiry of sentences or because detention was no longer considered necessary, about half the political prisoners in the North West Frontier Province have been released since the end of June.—British Wireless Service.

MANCHUKUO AND SOVIET

After recounting the facts of the case, the note demands the immediate release of the emigrants, and severe punishment of the O.G.P.U. detachment responsible. It also demands an apology from the Soviet Government and a guarantee of no repetition of such incidents in the future.—Reuter's Pacific Service.

Captured Russians To Be Tried For Espionage.

Tokyo, Yesterday. According to press reports here Prince Ukhtomsky and the other nine alleged White Guards, who were seized aboard the Tungshang in Manchukuo territorial waters, are to be tried on a charge of espionage at Habarovsk.—Reuter.

GERMANY CONTINUES BROADCASTS

Herr Hoenig, former Vienna correspondent of the German newspaper "Muencherzeitung," was recently expelled by the Austrian Government.—Reuter.

Following the British and French friendly notes to the German Government on Monday, the Italian Government informed Britain that they had received assurances on August 6, that the German Government would check broadcast propaganda against Austria by tightening the censorship.

They also gave assurance that they would do their best to prevent injured and taken to hospital. The incursion of aeroplanes from General Valle was flying to Barcelona from Lisbon, after attending a reception to General Balbo.
